TREVINO PLOTTED WITH VILLISTAS IS BORDER CHARGE

Deposed General Said to Have Furnished Villa with Munitions; Claims of Operations Against Bandits Doubted

TREVINO FAITH DOUBTED
Concentration at Chihuahua of Loyal Soldiers Deemed Highly Significant by the De Factos

EL PASO, Tex., July 13.—Information was received today that Carranza General Trevino furnished Villa with munitions and doubt was cast on Trevino's reports of attacks by his men on the bandits operating in the Parral district.

Telegraphic communication was cut by Villistas south of Chihuahua during the night. The "break" is believed to be in the vicinity of Santa Rosalia and north of the point where the main body of Villistas are operating.

Carranza agents have furnished United States officials here with detailed charges of a plot by Trevino to assist the rebel movement in northern Mexico, with the ultimate purpose of replacing Villa at its head. This, coupled with the attack on American troops at Carrizal by Trevino's orders, is nearly precipitating war, is said to have caused War Minister Obregon's order replacing Trevino with Governor-General Ignacio Enriquez. Rumors that Enriquez was jailed at Torreón by Trevino's orders or that Enriquez fell into the hands of Villistas and was executed are without confirmation.

The significance of Trevino's concentrating at Chihuahua City all troops loyal to him, since receiving word of his transfer to Monterey, is also suspected by Carranza agents here. Even part of the Juarez garrison and practically all the army he mobilized in Villa Ahumada to check General Pershing's movements are now in Chihuahua City. General Sebastian Carranza and General Amuniz, both nephews of First Chief Carranza, left El Paso today for Mexico City to make a personal report on their observation of Trevino's actions.

They are expected to charge Trevino with purposely sending large supplies of munitions to points in the vicinity of Jimenez, the supplies later falling into Villa's hands.

Arrivals from Chihuahua today stated that Trevino has imprisoned Generals Jose Ynez Salazar and Marcelo Caraveo, former Huerta commanders, who were recently granted amnesty by Obregon. Trevino was ordered by Obregon a week ago to give both men commands in the Carranza divisions north.

Obregon has ordered the arrest of General Roque Gomez, former Huerta commander, who was last reported at Casas Grandes, fleeing to the American expedition's lines to escape arrest.

STATE CAVALRY MAY SEE BORDER SERVICE SOON

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 13.—It is believed Troop A may soon join the other cavalry on the border, as mounted men may be needed to prevent expected raids. Infantry may not go except in case of a new expedition to maintain lines of communication, or in case of actual invasion. Troopers and artillerymen are getting stiff drills.

The First Wisconsin Infantry arrived here on Tuesday in three sections of a battalion each. The machine gun company accompanied the second battalion, and the supply company, field hospital and brigade staff arrived with the first battalion.

Officers of Troop A and Battery H met the infantry at the train. Troopers and artillerymen waited in the field and cheered as the doughboys marched by. The men made a fine impression, as all are fully equipped. They make many other national guard companies look shabby.

GREAT LAKES CITIES HAVE BREATHING SPELL

CHICAGO, July 13.—While the plains states of the middle west sweltered today with no relief in sight for at least thirty-six hours, Chicago and the rest of the cities along the great lakes enjoyed fairly moderate temperatures.

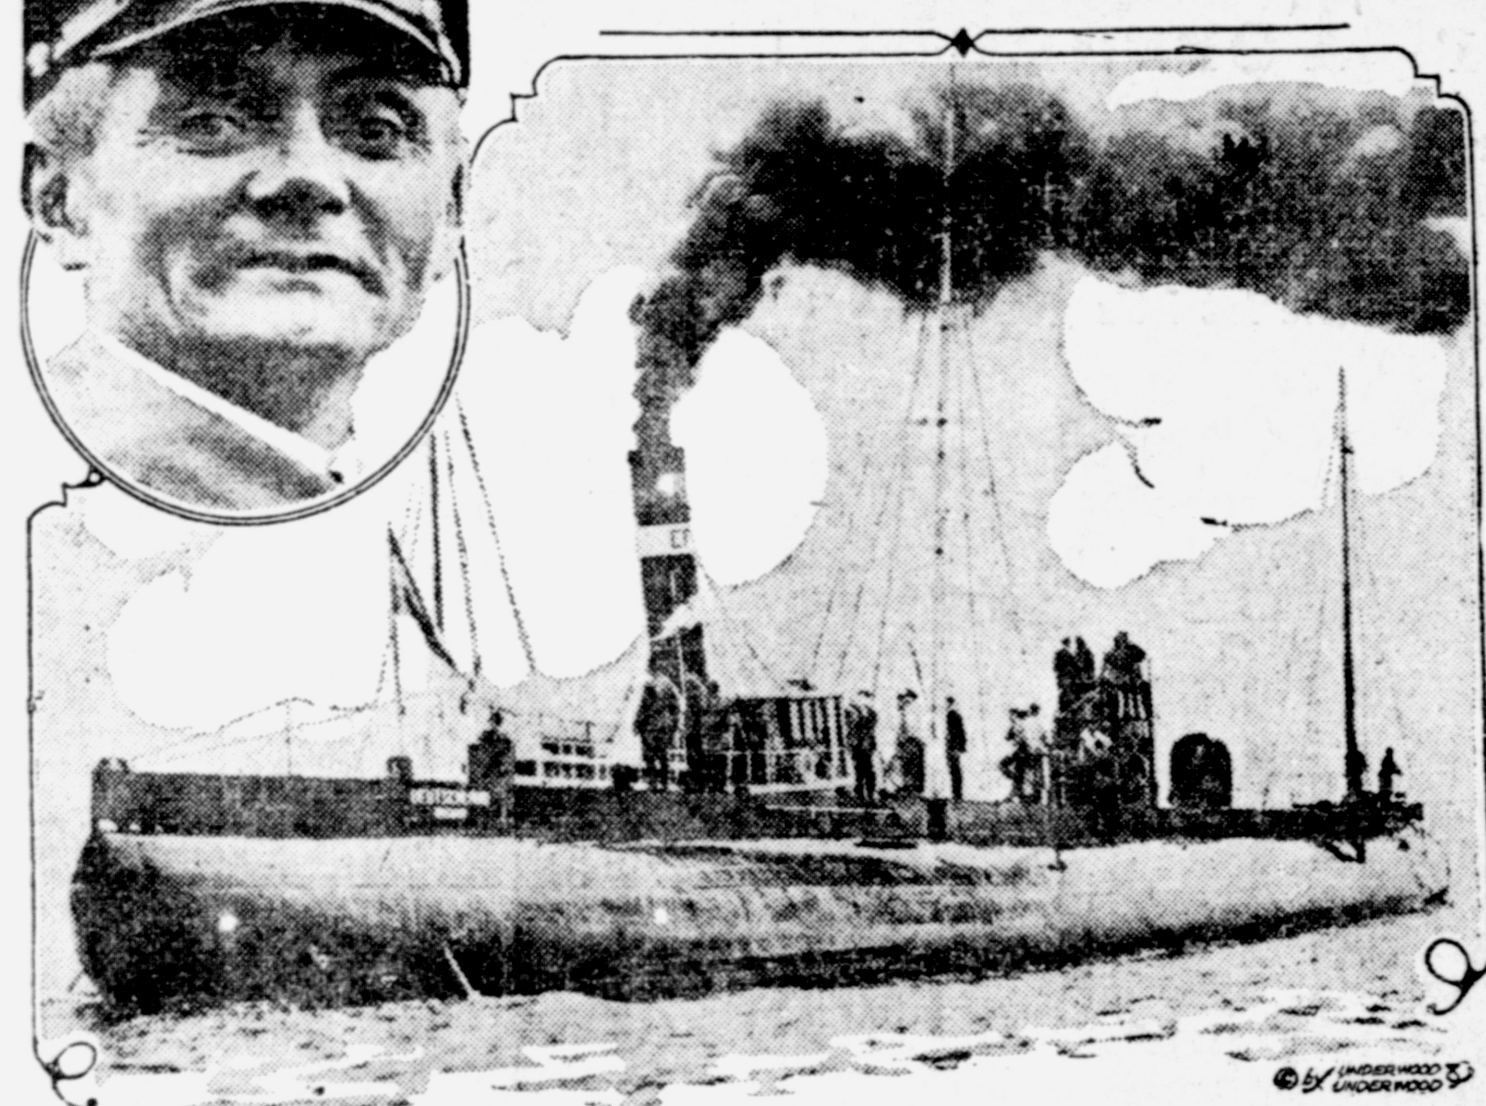

The maximum recorded here up to 10 a. m. today was 88. Celevaland, Detroit, Duluth, Milwaukee and other lake cities recorded temperatures averaging around 90 degrees.

Cooler weather in the western lake region tonight and in the far northwest Friday was in sight, the weather bureau announced.

More German Supersubmarines Will Defy British and Visit United States, Declares Deutschland's Commander

That more German supersubmarines like the Deutschland will defy the British fleet and visit the United States with costly cargoes of dye stuffs and chemicals is the statement of Captain Paul Koenig, the Deutschland's commander. These huge submarines can carry a cargo worth $1,000,000. Moreover, they can take back to Germany materials which will be of great value to the kaiser in the manufacture of weapons of war.

"STEP LIVELY!" NEW STREET CAR RULES GO INTO EFFECT TODAY

The new Fourth and Main street car rules, drafted yesterday by Mayor A. A. Bentley prohibiting cars from standing idle on the corner, were put into effect on the dot of 9 o'clock this morning.

There was some hustling to climb aboard, conductors were forced to command passengers to "step lively," some persons were left, and even a few became indignant while others laughed and watched the cars go by while they were only a few yards away—but in the main, the enforcement of the rules was a complete success.

Chief of Police John B. Webber commanded the corner of Fourth and Main streets until late this morning. "Most of the cars only waited from fifteen to twenty seconds," he said. "Some took thirty seconds to take on and discharge their passengers, but no car stopped on the corner longer than forty-five seconds."

The new rules will be in effect between the hours of nine in the morning and nine at night.

"DANGER IS OVER" DECLARES PERSHING

WASHINGTON, July 13.—General Pershing believes the trouble between the United States and Mexico is settled. In a report to the war department today, he made his statement, supplementing a report that "Mexicans in this vicinity (the vicinity of his column) along the Mexican railroad, are reported very friendly toward Americans in the last few days."

ILLINOIS MILITIA IS CALLED OUT TO PUT DOWN STRIKE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 13.—Companies A and B, Sixth Infantry, were today ordered to La Salle by Governor Dunne to quell the riots which are taking place at that place, resulting from the strike of the cement workers.

LA SALLE, Ill., July 13.—The first call for state troops to quell labor riots since militia contingents were ordered to the border was made today by Sheriff Davis of La Salle county following incipient battles between strikers at cement plants and the police.

As Illinois has two militia regiments which were not ordered to the border, the Fifth and Sixth, most of the companies being in towns in this section of the state, Davis anticipated the troops would be sent here speedily.

The situation about the cement plants was quiet early today, but Sheriff Davis was taking no chances. Yesterday the strikers, seeking to prevent men from going to work at the cement plants, attacked Police Chief Thomas Doyle and other officers and took their stars and clubs away from them. No one was seriously injured.

Approximately 1,200 men are striking.

Six-hour Session of Republicans Ends Last Night in Renaming Philipp for Governor; Cousins for Lieut. Governor

For governor—E. L. Philipp, Milwaukee.
Lieutenant governor—Marshall Cousins, Eau Claire.
Secretary of state—George L. Harrington, Elkhorn.
State treasurer—Henry Johnson, Madison.
Attorney general—E. R. Hicks, Oshkosh.

MADISON, Wis., July 13.—Just as the sun was setting in the west over Lake Mendota last night, the conservative republican convention which had been in session here for six hours completed the naming of the above state ticket. Only over the secretary of state and the attorney generalship were there contests. For the offices of governor and lieutenant governor and state treasurer the candidates were named by acclamation. It was announced at the convention, before the balloting on the state treasurer was taken, that Paul Schardt of Oconto would be a candidate at the September primaries, regardless of the action in the convention.

BURT WILLIAMS AND W. F. WOLFE CHOICE OF "HARMONY" MEET

Karel Seconds Wolfe's Nomination in Hopes of Securing Concessions Against Naming of Williams

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 13.—"I can not state my authority, but it may be taken for granted that there will be another conference of democrats and that another ticket will be put into the field," said Judge John C. Karel Wednesday night following the nomination of Mr. Williams.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 13.—The democratic "harmony" conference on Wednesday nominated Burt Williams of Ashland for governor and William F. Wolfe of La Crosse for United States senator, after the bitterest controversy in which the party has ever participated and as a result there is a breach so wide that little or no hope exists for united action. The nomination of Mr. Wolfe was seconded by Judge John C. Karel.

Other nominations follow:
Lieutenant governor—John Cudahy, Milwaukee.
Secretary of state—Ned C. Jones, Portage.

Treasurer—John G. Reuter, Milwaukee.
Attorney general—Thomas H. Ryan, Appleton.

Announces General Ticket
Judge John C. Karel, twice democratic candidate for governor, after appearing on the floor two times in a vain attempt to block the nomination of Williams, announced that a second convention would be held and that another ticket would be placed in the field.

The debate between the Karel men and the so-called progressives was so bitter from the first that it was evident early that it would be impossible for the convention to agree on a candidate.

It appeared for a time that the candidacy of George B. Hilton of Oshkosh would bring about the much sought unity, but John Kluwin, Mr. Hilton's law partner, announced that the latter could not accept the nomination because of ill health, but

ISABEL LANGDON SUCCUMBS AFTER WEEK'S ILLNESS

Thirteen-year-old Daughter of J. E. Langdon Called at Three O'clock Yesterday at Home of Parents

HAD ATTENDED NORMAL
Funeral to Take Place Tomorrow Afternoon at 2:30 from Home; Rev. E. Vornholt to Officiate

Isabel, thirteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Langdon, 232 North Tenth street, died at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon after an acute illness of only a week.

The funeral will take place at 2:30 Friday from the Langdon residence. Rev. Edward Vornholt, of the Reformed Lutheran church, will deliver the funeral sermon. Interment will be made in Oak Grove cemetery.

Isabel had attended the state normal-primary department, where she had won the affectionate regard of teachers and pupils, but since Christmas she had not felt well, and her parents had taken her from school and sought to build her up with fresh air and exercise. She seemed to be doing well, and only a week ago took a long walk about the Langdon summer cottage on the Mississippi.

Upon returning to La Crosse she became acutely ill, and failed rapidly, despite constant medical care, until the end came yesterday.

KLING DRILLS MEN OF TRAINING SQUAD

The public band concert, the Chamber of Commerce meeting and other important gatherings last night combined to keep the number of patriots who turned out for the first regular drill of the La Crosse Military Training association to a minimum. No business was transacted.

The men were drilled by John F. Kling. After the marching maneuvers, the setting up exercises were given to the members of the association. The date for the next meeting has not been fixed. There is a possibility of the meeting being held on Thursdays in the future.

LONG AT HEAD OF PUBLICITY; FORM CIVIC BUREAU TONIGHT

At 8 o'clock tonight, at the City Hall, the Civic Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce will be organized. This is a vastly important bureau and a large attendance is expected. President Frank P. Hixon will preside.

The Conventions and Publicity Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce was organized at a meeting held in the Directors' Room of La Crosse Club last night. President Frank P. Hixon presided and Harry Burford was made temporary secretary.

Harry Long was elected director for two years, and C. A. Hunt, director for one year. This makes Mr. Long ex-officio vice president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Forty men were present and engaged in an interesting general discussion, but it was decided to await the arrival of Secretary James R. Kinsloe before outlining a definite program.

Mr. Long, who is a publicity man of wide experience, in accepting the office made a strong appeal for cooperation.

Invite Shippers
It was announced today that through an oversight members of the Shippers' association had not received special invitations to attend the bureau meetings.

"Their presence is urgently needed and invited, make that plain," said Mr. McFarland.

Mr. Long's Appeal

"In accepting this office," said Mr. Long, "I am taking it for granted that we shall have the earnest co-operation, not only of this bureau, but of the entire Chamber of Commerce. There are no walls about the bureau. Each bureau needs the suggestions and help of every member of the Chamber. We must work all together all the time, for everything that builds La Crosse."

"It is expected that Mr. Kinsloe will arrive about August 1. At that time we

KAISER MOVES TWO CORPS TO DEFEND WAY TO BAPAMUE

German Success Southwest of Contalmaison Would Hold Up Entire British Advance on the Somme

BERLIN, July 13.—"British troops succeeded in establishing themselves in the village of Contalmaison," it was officially announced here today.

South of the Somme, several French attacks on both sides of the village of Barleux and west of Estrees were unsuccessful.

East of the Meuse, German infantry was busy consolidating the positions captured from the French on the northeastern front of Verdun on Tuesday. The Germans captured fifty-six French officers and 2,349 men.

LONDON, July 13.—The second phase of the British offensive is approaching a crisis in the battle north-east of Albert, where British troops are straining to advance two miles eastward to the heights of Martinpuch.

The Germans have thrown two whole army corps into action on both sides of the Albert-Bapaume road to defend the approaches to Bapaume. They are making the most savage counter attacks, particularly southeast of Contalmaison, where a German success would hold up the whole British advance.

German correspondents, admitting the great power of the British offensive, claim that the attacking forces have suffered heavy losses comparable only to the casualties at Verdun. British correspondents report that the English losses have been severe only in the death grapples for possession of villages where German machine guns have played on the British lines.

No Canadian or Australian troops have taken part in the Somme attack thus far, but Newfoundland troops have distinguished themselves, according to reports from British headquarters.

On the eastern front the operations east of Kovel have reached a temporary lull with the Russians and Austro-Germans redistributing their forces and bringing up artillery along the stoched river for a renewal of heavy fighting.

75'S MEET THE ATTACK

Battle, Starting Tuesday, Continues with Greatest Force Being Spent on Souville-Damloup Sector

BY HENRY WOOD

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
PARIS, June 13.—Dense German masses are storming the approaches to Fort Souville in the seventh great assault on Verdun since the battle for the fortress began 146 days ago.

The violence of yesterday's attacks furnish unmistakable evidence that Germany is determined to continue the attack on Verdun, regardless of her critical position on other fronts. French military critics agreed on this point today after studying the reports from headquarters.

The present attack began Tuesday. The Germans had spent eighteen days in preparation. They brought up new guns and trench mortars, shifted more troops from the west bank of the Meuse and hurried fresh supplies of ammunition to the Souville-Damloup sector.

The French, ready to meet the shock, turned loose a sheeted fire into the advancing German ranks and took terrible toll with the "75's." Throughout Tuesday night and all day yesterday the battle raged on the Souville-Damloup sector, the French counter-attacking with great spirit.

Only at one point, near the intersection of the Fleury and Vaux roads, did the German attack gain any ground.

The Germans kept up a violent bombardment throughout the night on the sector of Souville and Chenois and Lauffee, but made no infantry attacks, the war office announced today.

AMERICAN COMPANY BEING FORMED FOR UNDERSEA TRAFFIC

BY CARL D. GROAT

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

BALTIMORE, Md., July 13.—Shattering of the British starvation blockade will soon be attempted by a fleet of giant undersea freighters flying the American flag.

Inspired by the success of the German submarine freighter Deutschland, Manager Paul Hilken of the Ocean Rhederer, Deutschland owners, is forming an American corporation to make undersea ships that will put the Deutschland in the pigmy class. Simon Lake, submarine inventor, who fully a year ago predicted in a scientific paper that "we shall probably see some form of cargo carrying submarine constructed as blockade runners," will act in an advisory capacity to the new corporation, and permit the use of his patents.

Hilken gave the United Press the following statement of his plans today: "Captain Simon Lake, undoubtedly the pioneer in the design of successful submarines, and P. G. Hilken, American manager of the Ocean Rhederer, Bremen, are considering the advisability of forming a company to operate, under the American flag, a service similar to that begun by the Ocean Rhederer with its submersible freighter Deutschland. The success of the trip of the Deutschland and the huge profits which are already assured—the cost of that vessel being practically paid by her first voyage—lead those who are planning the new venture to expect it to prove successful financially."

The cargo submarine Deutschland, inspiration for this enormous plan, was ready today for loading, preliminary to returning to Germany.

It looked as though the tug Timmins were ready to haul her away very soon. German Ambassador Bernstorff was due this afternoon to see Captain Koenig and the crew, and then to have dinner tonight with the party as the guests of Mayor Preston.

"A Look Means A Lot"

THE HASKIN LETTER

THE NEW POLICEMAN
By Frederic J. Haskin

NEW YORK, N. Y., July 13.—On the night of October 28, 1915, a man entered the cigar store of a well-known concern on the lower Bowery and asked for a couple of cigars. As the clerk stopped to extract them from the case, the man covered him with a revolver and coolly demanded the contents of the safe. Fortunately for the cigar store clerk, at this juncture a policeman was seen approaching, and the man turned and fled. The officer fired at him, and missed, but the report was heard by John A. McCarren, a patrolman, farther down the street, who took up the pursuit. Twice the fleeing burglar discharged his revolver at McCarren, wounding him each time, but in spite of that the patrolman followed him up to the fourth story of an empty building. Again the burglar's revolver blazed forth, grazing McCarren's cheek, but immediately guided by its flash, the patrolman discharged his own three times. One of these bullets penetrated the burglar's leg, and being unable to continue his flight he came out from his hiding place, hands up.

This is only one instance of the remarkable feats of courage performed by the New York policeman, to whom such things are mere incidents of what is, under any circumstances, a risky business. A few years ago such a feat of courage as McCarren's would have passed unnoticed, but such is no longer the case in New York. A medal of honor is now provided by the police department and McCarren is one of the first to wear it.

For many years it has been the American custom to invent wheezes concerning the incompetency of our police force until the popular conception of the average policeman was that of a fat, gullible individual who was the special pet of comic supplements, Keystone comedies and crooks. Not so now. The modern metropolitan policeman is a keeneyed, athletic-looking person who does his duty swiftly and creditably even in the face of death. Neither is he afraid of public indignation. For instance, no amount of bribery, supplication or entreaty could induce a policeman to let you get off a street car at a crowded crossing if the traffic sign happens to signal "Go." In fact, in New York you are lucky if you succeed in leaving a street car within three blocks of where you intended to get off. If anything happens to the mechanism of an open car, the running boards are immediately folded under the car, and there you sit until the car is fixed, under guard of a stern and taciturn policeman.

The modern policeman is not permitted to be fat. When he first enlists in the municipal service, he is put in the district gymnasium where he is exercised and drilled until his muscles are hard and he is physically fit. He is shown exercises for strengthening the arches of his feet, since broken arches is the great affliction of the police corps; he is taught jehu jitsu and how to shoot a revolver while in various positions; and he is given a short course in criminal psychology. This recruits' training school, in which a policeman stays for six weeks before he is detailed to duty, is one of the most important factors in the efficiency of the New York police force. It is this school which is turning out such policemen as McCarren.

In a city the size of Manhattan, containing districts where every third man has a criminal record and where a murderer may be hired for the sum of $25, the life of a policeman is in constant danger. There are times when he must pretend to join the ranks of the enemy and thereby obtain evidence against the most notorious crooks, frequenting their dives in plain clothes so as not to arouse suspicion. In such a predicament was Patrolman John C. Cas-pers when called upon by another officer to assist in the arrest of Red Hartman and Andy Lewis, two drug fiends who had notorious criminal records and were wanted at headquarters. The two men fled from the officers who followed close on their trail. When Caspers was within a few feet of Lewis, the crook drew a revolver and attempted to fire at him, but the cartridge failed to explode. Caspers attempted to grapple with the crook, but the next time Lewis pulled the trigger the cartridge did explode and the bullet went into Caspers' thigh. Momentarily stunned by the bullet, the policeman released his hold on Lewis who again started to run. The policeman pursued for a short distance, and the crook sent another bullet into his leg. Still Caspers struggled on until Lewis climbed a six-foot wall and made good his escape, since it was impossible for the policeman with his wounded leg to scale the wall.

Besides the capture of crooks, policemen yearly drag numerous persons out of the river at the risk of their own lives, and in case of fire the strong arm and the swift courage of the modern policeman are of great value. Last year, for example, there was a big explosion in the ammonia plant of a large New York refrigerating concern. Three minutes later Patrolman Edward F. Doyle was on the scene, telephoning for the fire department and making his way through the smoke and fumes of ammonia gas in search of victims of the disaster. He was warned by the manager of the plant that there would be a second explosion, but unheeding, Doyle pushed on until he came upon a man, who, almost overcome by the fumes, was trying to crawl up the stairway from the boiler room. Doyle picked him up and carried him on his back to the men assembled in the yard, and then went back to save others. Shortly afterwards, the second explosion occurred and the policeman was thrown into the street, badly cut by broken window glass. For this act of bravery, Doyle was awarded the honor medal of the Automobile Club of America.

The medals of honor are an important feature of the New York police force. Every spring the department holds its annual parade, in which battalions of bluecoats march and drill and perform the callisthenic exercises which are taught in the training school. At the conclusion of the parade the mayor of New York presents six medals of honor to policemen who during the year have performed the most conspicuous feats of bravery, one of these being awarded by the police department and the other five by private citizens or clubs. The private medals are the Rhinelander medal for valor; the Isaac Bell medal for bravery; the Peter F. Meyer medal; the Automobile club medal and the Brooklyn Citizens' medal. The man who receives one of these medals is the envy of all his brother officers, and this element has its influence in the willingness of policemen to follow up criminals at the risk of their lives.

There is also another element in this situation which is an incentive to following the criminal in the face of death. The policeman knows that if he is killed his family will be well provided for. For many years, if a man were killed in the service, the department was authorized to issue a small monthly allowance to his wife, but the sum was anything but adequate. Then, in 1914, a courageous detective sergeant named Joseph Guarneri was killed in an attempt to arrest a man for felonious assault. He left a wife and several children for whom there was no adequate provision. The case received a great deal of publicity, and a private citizen came forward with the proposition of starting an honor fund for the relief of widows and children of officers killed on duty, contributing as a basis $1,000. The police then held a meeting in order to decide upon a plan for swelling the fund, and it was finally proposed that every year they should hold two field days, in which various members of the force would exhibit their athletic prowess in a big athletic meet, for which they would sell tickets. The plan was a success, the first exhibition netting the policemen $85,000, and now the meets are regular events looked forward to by their audiences as well as the policemen. The 1913 field day exercises have just closed, and among the first to be taken care of from the gate receipts was the widow of Patrolman Schwartz, who was recently killed while trying to arrest a couple of Italian criminals.

From this it may be seen that the popular idea of the American policeman and especially the New York policeman is often unfair and erroneous. The Metropolitan policeman today is a man with high standards of duty, a unit of efficiency in a large organization and often a hero.

IGNORANCE BLOCKS EFFORTS TO FIGHT PARALYSIS SPREAD

BY BETTY GRAEME

NEW YORK, July 13.—"Oh, please, doctor, da baby, he is nod seek any more. He is all right, I am telling you, he is all right—see." With this plea a mother in the district of Brooklyn stricken with the dread infantile paralysis sought to save her baby from the common terror of the foreign settlement—the hospital. Not only must the doctors and nurses engaged in the fight to save human life, battle with disease and death, but with human ignorance. Mothers fight for their children when the ambulance arrives. The entire neighborhood gathers about the doctors and nurses. Oftentimes there are near riots. The incident was typical.

In response to the appeals of Mrs. Holman, who lives on Madison street, the ambulance physician picked up the mite of humanity, to see that he was "all right." He stood the boy up. The little legs were normal. Then as childish awe gave way to fear, the wee bit of humanity burst into tears. But only one eye fills, only one side of the little face moves. In the immobility of the other side is writ, as plainly as in words, the presence of the malady in its milder, more common form. A nod, and the nurse has stripped the child and donned the hospital slip. As she unfolds the white blanket to wrap around it, the mother, with a cry of despair, snatches her baby and the two half-crazed beings cling to each other in desperation, sobbing wildly. A policeman is summoned and the child hurried away with the shrieking mother and neighbors, who swarm into the street, following in the wake of the ambulance until it speeds away and disappears.

Ignorance, fear and superstition combine to block the work of those who are fighting day and night to stem the plague of poliomyelitis that clutches New York in a death grip. The light, clean dormitories, corps of skilled nurses and doctors, mean nothing to the poor mothers bereft of their young.

Two trips were made to the home of I. Zarra before the child was discovered and then only after a battle royal, in which two policemen and the doctor engaged the enraged and frightened clan, was the nurse able to steal away the unfortunate victim. The street was in an uproar as the ambulance sped away amid wild imprecations. To the hospital attendants it is all in the day's work that they may be stabbed in the back at any moment by a frantic parent. Today, after a fight, first with a frantic mother, then the father and, finally, the neighbors, an ambulance sped down the street, tears streaming down the faces of the nurses from the scenes they had witnessed.

Kids Have New Word

"It's polio, it's polio," yelled the curious crowd of excitable children with the New York street gamin's aptitude for picking up a new word.

"It's polio," whispered their elders with blanched faces. "It's hell," said the young surgeon on the ambulance, and he looked sorrowfully upon the pitiful little bundle that had been carried from the tenement.

CRUTCHES FOR WAR CRIPPLES

A Canadian soldier who has been returned to his home, after being kept for some months as a wounded prisoner in a German hospital, was permitted to retain his crutches which are of great interest to his home people as an example of German ingenuity. They are adjustable so that they can be utilized as conveniently by a giant eight feet tall as by a midget. In addition to their adjustable height, the crutches are exceptionally light in weight and are also strong enough to bear any reasonable strain. It is said that several large factories in Germany are now working full speed turning out these crutches to meet the demand. An interesting fact is that many of the workers in the factory are war cripples of some kind and that the perfection of the crutches is largely due to suggestions made by the men who have to use them.

GETTING TOGETHER

The republican national committee announces that the republican party is "getting together" and throughout the nation re-echo glad tidings of great joy.

The republican party is "getting together" in Wisconsin. The stalwart republicans and the progressive republicans each have put out complete opposing tickets and rival platforms. The McGovern faction has an anti-La Follette progressive candidate for governor and plans to add a candidate for senator.

Verily, the Wisconsin republicans are "getting together", and for the peace and dignity of the state it will be well if they do not get too closely "together".

WILL YOU TAKE A CHANCE, MR. JEFFRIES?

In the conservative republican conference which endorsed state and federal candidates for republican nominations yesterday, Chairman Bird and Candidate Jeffries engaged in the historic pastime of "reading Senator La Follette out of the party". They made no new case, but charged him with deserting party platforms and candidates.

If either of these gentlemen will make affidavit that he has ever voted for Senator La Follette when the latter was the duly nominated candidate of the republican party, or that in the past fourteen years, 1914 excepted, he has endorsed a republican state platform, we will concede his right to "read any man out of the party". As a word of caution, we suggest that should either of them make such affidavit, they would promptly be "read out of the party" by the very conference in which they participated yesterday.

Senator La Follette has endorsed Hughes, but criticised the platform—and is condemned. Col. Theodore Roosevelt has endorsed Hughes, but only relatively stands for the platform—and Chairman Bird commends him. Eight years ago Mr. Taft, then the republican presidential nominee, was so dissatisfied with the republican platform that he wrote a personal platform, but if we bar the events of the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1912, Mr. Taft was never "read out of the party".

That last reflection carries a suggestion. Why not leave to the republican voters the joyous task of "reading men out of the party"? We'll put it to the touch. If in the republican primaries next September Senator La Follette is defeated by Mr. Jeffries, we will agree that "Bob" has been "read out of the party", but if the senator wins and Mr. Jeffries is rejected, we shall insist that Mr. Jeffries has been "read out of the party".

How about it, Malcolm?—Are you game?

THAN WOLFE THERE ARE NO BETTER DEMOCRATS

The democratic state conference which met in Milwaukee yesterday put its best foot forward when it endorsed William F. Wolfe for the United States senate. Mr. Wolfe is a progressive democrat, clean and able, in touch with the things for which the better element in his party stands. In the improbable event of his election he would distinguish himself as an exponent of democratic views, fully representing those who subscribe to democratic doctrine in national administration, and standing always for the honor of Wisconsin and of the nation. He has the respect and confidence, not only of his own partisans, but of that sizeable majority of the state who are not in political agreement with him. Between him and Senator La Follette there will be a campaign of able reasoning, free from the personalities and abuse which have made so many Wisconsin campaigns unpleasant.

OUR MILITIAMEN HAVE MADE GOOD

The Third Wisconsin infantry has moved to Fort Sam Houston, within quick striking distance of the Mexican border. With them they take the loyalty and admiration of our people, in whose hearts the topmost hope is that they may not have to strike.

But if strike they must, we rest secure in the conviction that the blow will not be light. Mobilization has corroborated official reports of the war department placing the Wisconsin brigade at the head of the national guard in every phase of soldiery. The Third infantry has been shown to lead the Wisconsin brigade, and the La Crosse, Tomah, Sparta and Viroqua companies stand in the front rank of their regiment. The last movement, in which the three battalions of the "Shooting Third" made a record by anticipating every train schedule, was an achievement in "preparedness" along lines in which our army is weakest—mobility. We'll stake the reputation of Wisconsin and the safety of the nation upon these clean-cut, alert, competent American citizens.

FRIEND HARTWELL AND THE DIMMER ORDINANCE

Truth to tell, we haven't the slightest sympathy with our good friend Mr. Hartwell's little peeve about the dimmer ordinance. We believe its purpose is fair and sound, and that it should be enforced—we say it at the risk of being barred from many a spin in the honorable car which Mr. Hartwell purchased almost twenty-four hours before his arrest. Just the same we entertain an amused notion that if friend Fred says he has found a hole in the ordinance, the hole is there.

Oh, well! If Mr. Hartwell knocks out the law and evades his fine, and if thereafter the council amends the ordinance to make it hold water, or enacts a perfectly constitutional law in its stead, it will be fifty-fifty. Fritz will have his revenge and his laugh and we shall have a dimmer law under which we can fine Mr. Hartwell to our hearts' content—if we can catch him napping.

His Tribute

There was an old farmer who was widely known as the crossdest, closest and most generally nonlikable citizen in the whole state. Like other mean men he lived to a ripe old age, but eventually he died and his friends went ahead with plans for his funeral.

Now, it is customary, in the case of rural funerals, for those who attend, as they stand by the coffin, to murmur some eulogy of the dead. A number of farmers came in and said things which didn't square at all with the old man's life.

Finally an aged man who had known the deceased all his life, hobbled in and stood by the coffin. The aged man was known as the most truthful man in the county. Hence the other people present waited with interest to hear what he would say.

The old man gazed down silently for a while. He paused. Finally he spoke.

"Wal," he said earnestly, "nobody kin deny that he was a great hand for closin' his stable door o' nights."

A Clear Conscience

There once was an Irishman, who went into a restaurant on a Friday in Lent and seating himself at a table said to the waiter, "Bring me a whale."

The waiter told him they were just out of whales.

"Thin bring me a shark!"

The waiter replied that they were not serving sharks today.

"Thin bring me a jelly-fish!"

The waiter responded that jelly-fish was not on the bill of fare.

"Thin bring me a good big beef-steak; for the saints in hien know I've tried hard enough to get fish!"

A Stumped Detective

Ezra Haskins, constable of a New England village, had an exalted opinion of his ability as a detective. He also read everything he could find on the career of Sherlock Holmes, until he had imagined that he had thereby acquired wonderful deductive ability.

"Now, gentlemen," said Ezra on one occasion to his assistants in a particular case, "we have traced these clues—the footprints of the horse and the footprints of the man right up here to this stump. From the stump on there's only the footprints of the horse. Now, gentlemen, the question is what has become of the man?"

MONTE CARLO

In order to live up to its reputation, Monte Carlo would have to be a very remarkable place. Fiction fills it with adventures and adventures, with sudden wealth and sudden ruin, with frequent suicides and the wrecks of humanity who have lost their all at the gambling tables. As a matter of fact, life in Monte Carlo is, on the surface at least, exactly like life at almost any fashionable summer resort, and to people whose principles or pocket-books do not permit them to gamble, it is likely to be a good deal of a bore.

Monte Carlo is remarkable of course as the city possessing the most perfect gambling organization in the world, the one where most money changes hands daily over the tables, but it has other curious and interesting features as well. The principality of Monaco in which it lies is the smallest independent unit of government in the world, being in some places only two hundred yards wide. It has a prince and a standing army for all that, and recently declared its entire neutrality in the European struggle. Since its army consists of about a thousand men, this must have been a great relief to all concerned.

The people of Monaco enjoy the blessings of a peculiarly paternalistic government. They are the only known citizens who pay no taxes of any sort. The country gets a huge annual income from the Casino at Monte Carlo, and has no trouble with the exchequer.

Further to increase the happiness of the people's lot the government does not permit them to gamble, thus assuring itself that money saved in taxes shall go into the family stocking instead of the Casino's bank account.

The Casino of course is the great and spectacular attraction at Monte Carlo. It is likely, however, to disappoint the visitor who comes looking for excitement. Most of the people in the long rooms seem to be curious spectators, or wealthy amateurs who are not immensely interested whether they win or lose. There are plenty of tense faces, of anxious eyes and set mouths that the imaginative onlooker can use as the basis for romantic suppositions, but after all such features are not confined to the gambling rooms of Monte Carlo.

PRUDENCE OF THE PARSONAGE
 By ETHEL HUESTON
 Copyright 1915
 The Bobbs-Merrill Co.

A few weeks after this, Carol distinguished herself again, and to her lasting mortification. The parsonage pasture had been rented out during the summer months before the change of ministers, the outgoing incumbent having kept neither horse nor cow. As may be imagined, the little pasture had been taxed to the utmost, and when the new minister arrived, he found that his field afforded poor grazing for his pretty little Jersey. But a man living only six blocks from the parsonage had generously offered Mr. Starr free pasturage in his broad meadow, and the offer was gratefully accepted. This meant that every evening the twins must walk the six blocks after the cow, and every morning must take her back for the day's grazing.

One evening, as they were starting out from the meadow homeward with the docile animal, Carol stopped and gazed at Blinkie reflectively.

"Lark," she said, "I just believe to my soul that I could ride this cow. She's so gentle, and I'm such a good hand at sticking on."

"Carol!" ejaculated Lark. "Think how it would look for a parsonage girl to go down the street riding a cow."

"But there's no one to see," protested Carol. And this was true. For the parsonage was near the edge of the town, and the girls passed only five houses on their way home from the meadow—and all of them were well back from the road. And Carol was, as she had claimed, a good hand at "sticking on." She had ridden a great deal while they were at Exminster, a neighbor being well supplied with rideable horses, and she was passionately fond of the sport. To be sure, she had never ridden a cow, but she was sure it would be easy.

Lark argued and pleaded, but Carol was firm. "I must try it," she insisted, "and if it doesn't go well I can slide off. You can lead her, Lark."

The obliging Lark boosted her sister up, and Carol nimbly scrambled into place, riding astride.

"I've got to ride this way," she said; "cows have such funny backs I couldn't keep on any other way. If I see any one coming, I'll slide for it."

For a while all went well. Lark led Blinkie carefully, gazing about anxiously to see that no one approached. Carol gained confidence as they proceeded, and chatted with her sister nonchalantly, waving her hands about to show her perfect balance and lack of fear. So they advanced to within two blocks of the parsonage.

"It's very nice," said Carol. "very nice indeed—but her backbone is rather—well, rather penetrating. I think I need a saddle."

By this time, Blinkie concluded that she was being imposed upon. She shook her head violently, and twined the rope from Lark's hand—for Lark now shared her sister's confidence, and held it loosely. With a little cry she tried to catch the end of it, but Blinkie was too quick for her. She gave a scornful toss of her dainty head, and struck out madly for home. With great presence of mind, Carol fell flat upon the cow's neck, and hung on for dear life, while Lark, in terror, started out in pursuit.

"Help! Help!" she cried loudly. "Papa! Papa! Papa!"

In this way, they turned in at the parsonage gate, which happily stood open—otherwise Blinkie would undoubtedly have gone through, or over. As luck would have it, Mr. Starr was standing at the door with two men who had been calling on him, and hearing Lark's frantic cries, they rushed to meet the wild procession and had the unique experience of seeing a parsonage girl riding flat on her stomach on the neck of a galloping Jersey, with another parsonage girl in mad pursuit.

Blinkie stopped beside the barn, and turned her head about inquiringly. Carol slid to the ground, and buried her face in her hands at sight of the two men with her father. Then with never a word, she lit out for the house at top speed. Seeing that she was not hurt, and that no harm had been done, the three men sat down on the ground and burst into hearty laughter.

Lark came upon them as they sat thus, and Lark was angry. She stamped her foot with a violence that must have hurt her.

"I don't see anything to laugh at," she cried passionately. "It was awful, it was just awful! Carrie might have been killed! It—it—"

"Tell us all about it, Lark," gasped her father. And Lark did so, smiling a little herself, now that her fears were relieved. "Poor Carol," she said, "she'll never live down the humiliation. I must go and console her."

And a little later, the twins were weeping on each other's shoulders.

"I wouldn't have cared," sobbed Carol, "if it had been anybody else in the world! But—the presiding elder—and the president of the Presbyterian College! And I know the Presbyterians look down on us Methodists anyhow, though they wouldn't admit it! And riding a cow! Oh, Larkie, if you love me, go down stairs and get me the carbolic acid, so I can die and be out of disgrace."

This, however, Lark stoutly refused to do, and in a little while Carol felt much better. But she talked it over with Prudence very seriously.

Harry S. Hilliard, the co-star with the new film discovery, little June Caprice, in "Caprice of the Mountains," rose to prominence in William Fox feature films through his work as male star with Vivian Martin. They played together in "Merely Mary Ann," a dramatization of Israel Zangwill's novel, and later in "A Modern Thelma," a charming Scandinavian romance filmed in the mountains in Georgia. He bears the title of "the handsomest man in the movies," and aside from his masculine beauty he is a young actor of much dramatic talent.

Plays Minor Role To Win Sympathy

Because she thinks that nobody loves her on the screen, Pauline Frederick has decided that she would rather play the less important role of the self-sacrificing wife in the Famous Players adaptation of Clyde Fitch's celebrated play, "The Woman in the Case," than assume the title character, who is a deep-dyed "villainess." "When this picture goes out on the Paramount program people are going to see me in the guise of the sympathetic and devoted wife," says Miss Frederick. "I have not given up playing heavy characters, but simply want the sympathy of the audience to be with me for a change—if I can win it."

Actor Could Have Made a Prize Pug

No man likes to be wept over, but that is usually what happens when De Will van Court, noted boxing instructor and former trainer of champions, meets Herschel Mayall, who acts before the camera for the Fox company. Van Court shakes his head and his eyes become moist when he looks upon the person of Mr. Mayall, for he considers that when the latter took to the theatrical profession the prize ring lost a master workman. It is told that after recovering somewhat from a blow encountered one time during a friendly sparring match Van Court went on his knees to the actor, pleading with him to become a pugilist. Both of the principals, however, deny the rumor.

Harry Hilliard.

He is a native of Cincinnati, where he was educated; is of German-American descent; and was successful on the Broadway stage before he entered moving pictures last year.

Miss June Caprice was complimented on her pretty curly hair by one of the gallant sirs appearing with her in the new film play, "Caprice of the Mountains." "Yes," she said, "I'm fond of canoeing and sailing." "What's that got to do with it?" "Well, you see," she explained, "I'm on the water so much my hair gets wavy." But even that has not diminished the popularity of the charming Miss Caprice.

NAMING THE BABY

By Lurana Sheldon
 There's to be a 'portant meetin'
 To our house some day;
 Lots of folks an' lots of eatin',
 An' I heard Pa say—
 They was goin' to name the baby—
 May.

All my uncles, aunts an' cousins
 Comin' by express;
 'Spect they'll just walk in by dozens
 An' kick up a mess.
 'Cause Ma says she'll name the baby
 Bess.

There's to be a somethin' happen
 Near as I can tell,
 When my relatives get scarpin',
 'Cause my sister Bell
 Told me she's to name the baby
 Nell.

Now to make the meetin' hotter
 When they all are here,
 Somethin's doin' that had otter
 Make 'em all feel queer.
 Gran'ma's gone an' named the baby
 In her will, just plain
 Jane.

of the parsonage family, he went out the back door, barnward.

"Now," said Prudence briskly, "I want to make a bargain with you, girls. If you'll stay clear away from the Ladies' Aid, and be very good and orderly, I'll give you all the lemonade and cake you can drink afterward."

"Oh, Prudence, I'm sure I can't drink much cake," cried Carol tragically. "I just can't imagine myself doing it!"

"I mean, eat the cake, of course," said Prudence, blushing.

"And let us make taffy after supper?" wheedled Carol.

Prudence hesitated, and the three young faces hardened. Then Prudence relented and hastily agreed. "You won't need to appear at all, you know. You can just stay out-doors and play as though you were model children."

"Yes," said Carol tartly, "the kind the members used to have—which are all grown up, now! And all moved out of Mount Mark, too!"

"Carol! That sounds malicious, and malice isn't tolerated here for a minute. Now—oh, Fairy, did you remember to dust the back of the dresser in our bedroom?"

"Mercy! What in the world do you want the back of the dresser dusted for? Do you expect the Ladies to look right through it?"

"No, but some one might drop something behind it, and it would have to be pulled out and they would all see it. This house has got to be absolutely spotless for once—I am sure it will be the first time!"

Denver Maids Organize Domestic Workers' Union
DENVER, Col., July 13.—Sabotage is the new weapon the Denver Domestic Workers' union will use to reform rich mistresses. Miss Jane Street, organizer, said today there is nothing like sabotage to train housewives here as their maids and cooks would have them. About 1,000 housewives here are listed with the union, their virtues and faults catalogued and classified.

Interesting things happen when an I. W. W. maid or cook arrives in a blacklisted household to train the mistress in the way she should honor and obey her servants. Red pepper in soup, "accidental" falling of priceless china, salty sherbet at midday's bridge party, hot tea "accidentally" poured on one's gown where it is décolleté, and father's shirt too stiff with much starch make the housewife treat the next maid or cook with proper respect. The local union has quarters in a downtown office building and plans to raise funds to help the I. W. W. steel strikers in Minnesota.

"Police Mothers" Guard Girls at Coney Island

NEW YORK, July 13.—There appeared upon the beach at Coney Island today the new force of "police mothers," a volunteer organization of women possessing police authority, whose members patrol the sands to keep harm from the thousands of girls who come alone to the big resort.

The force is commanded by Mrs. Ellen Craig of the department of parks of the Borough of Brooklyn. While the police mothers co-operate with the regular police, their work is more personal and calculated to prevent trouble for the girls rather than to stop it after it has gotten started. The patrolled district is the entire beach, from Sea Gate to Brighton. The police mothers serve without pay.

Woman Educator is 53 Years Old Today

Dr. Mary Emma Woolley, president of Mount Holyoke college and one of the most famous women educators in the United States, is 53 years old today. Miss Woolley's activities and achievements in various lines besides education proper have been multiple enough to fill three or four ordinary careers. She is widely known as a pacifist, a suffragist, a sociologist, and her research work in biblical study have made her an authority in the field of modern religious criticism. She is a member of the board of electors of the Hall of Fame, the body of prominent—many of them famous—Americans called upon to decide what American names are worthy to be forever inscribed on the nation's annals and handed down to posterity. She is vice president of the American League to Enforce Peace, also of the American School of Peace league. As a sociologist her efforts have tended to the betterment of women and children in the industrial field, and she has devoted much time and labor to vocational training for women. Miss Woolley was born at South Norwalk, Conn., July 13, 1863, and was educated at Brown university. Her whole professional life has been devoted to

"JIMMY" HOGAN TO RESCUE OF WOMEN ROUTS A "TOUGH"

BY HOWARD JONES

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., July 13.—The La Crosse companies have a reputation for being a "gentlemen's companies," which was well sustained the day before the regiment left Camp Douglas. Private James C. Hogan, M company, better known as "Jimmy" Hogan, was detailed as guard at the railway station, with general orders to keep things smooth.

An ancient mariner, already half seas over, approached the depot and in the presence of several women, commenced to give a lurid opinion of the militia, the Mexicans, and the world in general. Private Hogan promptly ordered him off the platform, and after five minutes of threats and physical compulsion drove the enemy to the farthest confines of Camp Douglas.

There may have been a general order to leave mascots behind, but Alva Hill doesn't care. When he entertained yesterday, the company kites, a white-and-yellow waif picked up in Camp Douglas, was perched across his shoulders. The persuasions of two sergeants did not avail to bring pussy down, and when the train pulled out, kitty was still defiantly at rest on Al Hill's haversack.

Private "Brownie" Raper of Company B is not to be depressed by heat, cold, rain or sunshine. In the furnace heat of the company's last day in camp, he insisted on doing a kind of skirt dance for the edification of the crowd.

Chaplain Longbrake plans a "Third Regiment Vaudeville" to tour the state when the "war" is over. "We have an unlimited amount of talent in the regiment," he declares, "and we could easily add to the regimental fund." A vaudeville given by Company F the night of departure bears the chaplain out in his opinion.

George McDonald of West Salem, several times a candidate for the office of county sheriff on the republican ticket, this morning called at the office of Bert Jolivet and announced his intention of making the run again this year. Mr. McDonald is a cattle buyer and one of the most prominent citizens of West Salem.

He is very well known in La Crosse, having relatives here and numerous friends with whom he had been identified in a business capacity.

Aaron Darling of Bangor, Eugene H. Derr and John Weber, undersheriffs, are the only other candidates in the running thus far. It is rumored that Clinton Davey, also of Bangor, will be after the papers in the near future.

August 4 is the date set by law as the last day on which the papers declaring a candidate's intention of making the run for a county office can be filed at the office of the county clerk.

AMERICA SHOULD BE
OBJECT TO WORLD
DECLARES WILSON

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Speaking before the citizenship convention today, President Wilson declared, "America is intended to be a spirit among nations of the world."

America, he declared, should be the finest example of the objects and ideals that go to promote the standards of the world.

"I don't doubt that many a simple soul has been stirred by the statue of Liberty which represents the ideals of men. Thinking on this has caused me to turn on myself the light of investigation to see if there burned there the true fire of America, as those coming expect to find it," he said.

THIRD REGIMENT BEST EQUIPPED OF ALL MILITIA

(By Howard Jones)

That the Third Regiment of the Wisconsin National Guard is going to the border better equipped than four-fifths of the militia organizations now in Texas is the opinion of Colonel R. A. Richards and his staff, now speeding on their way to San Antonio. Companies B and M of La Crosse are included in this regiment.

The rush of preparation was such that the quartermaster's department at Rock Island was able to furnish a supply of the new army packs for only two Wisconsin regiments. The First and Third were lucky enough to draw this important item in the new equipment. This pack supercedes the old blanket roll with which the regiment went to Cuba, and in the opinion of the men is a great improvement.

"The new pack," said Lieutenant Emil Schultz of Company B, "has this advantage, that it does not bind the chest as the old army roll used to do. How it will go in a long march we don't know—yet. However, in the brief marches we have made so far, the men declare that the pack carries better, is easier to make satisfactorily, and is more convenient every way than the old blanket roll."

The Second regiment was compelled to keep the blanket roll. In the new pack the shelter-half and slicker, instead of going over the shoulder, are carried just beneath the haversack, in the middle of the back, and the weight is distributed between the shoulder blades. The trenching tool goes outside of the shelter-half roll.

In addition to the new pack, the Third is equipped with the new canteen and cup. How this will prove in the long run remains to be seen. The new canteen is perhaps harder to fill, and because the outside does not get wet in filling, as the old canteen used to, the water is not kept so cool by evaporation from the cover of the canteen. The cup, however, in fitting over the water-bottle, no longer jangles at the men's belts.

LA CROSSE LOSES
HUMANE OFFICER
LONGBRAKE GONE

When the Third regiment troops left for the border yesterday, La Crosse lost its humane officer in the person of Rev. George R. Longbrake, regimental chaplain, who has performed the duties to this office without any remuneration since D. C. Dewey retired. Should there be any need for the services of a humane officer during the absence of Mr. Longbrake, it is most probable that his duties will be performed by either Sol Burdick, county poor commissioner, or D. C. Dewey, both of whom have commissions from the state. No one will be appointed to succeed the Rev. Longbrake for the present at least.

La Crosse has had comparatively little use for a humane officer for a city of its size, according to Miss Nad. Thoms, secretary of the Associated Charities to whom many of the complaints are made.

COAL STEAMER
THOUGHT LOST

NEW YORK, July 13.—The steamship Ramos, carrying coal from Philadelphia to Cartagena, has apparently disappeared and it is feared she is lost.

The Marconi Wireless company yesterday received at its Miami, Fla., station an S. O. S. message from the Ramos declaring her engines were disabled and that she was sinking. She gave position 31.0 miles north west of Watling's island. The steamer Van Hogendorp picked up the message and immediately rushed to the position given.

Last late night the Van Hogendorp reported that she had arrived at the spot named but had found no trace of the Ramos.

SHARKS KILL BATHERS PIERS ARE DESERTED

Two More Deaths Added to List of Victims
With Third Victim Maimed for Rest of Life

NEW YORK, July 13.—Even New York got the shark panic today. At Coney Island, Brighton, Rockaway and other seashore points knowledge that a man eater had added two victims to his list of killed and had maimed another for life resulted in institution of special motorboat patrols, steel nets—and very few bathers. In New York city itself the news stopped many bathing parties from piers in the lower city.

There was considerable doubt expressed at St. Peter's hospital, New Brunswick, N. J., today that Joseph Dunn, 12-year-old boy, whose leg was horribly stripped of flesh from a shark bite, would recover.

Great pieces of flesh were torn from the bones and although the youth bore the shock well, the wound is of the sort that becomes infected easily.

A little over a week ago Charles E. Van Sant of Philadelphia, was attacked at Beach Haven, N. J., and killed. Five days later, on July 6, Charles Bruder, at Spring Lake, N. J., succumbed to terrible injuries inflicted by a man-eater. Yesterday Lester Stilwell, 12, and five other bay playmates, went swimming in Matawan creek. Stilwell was seized after one of the other swimmers had felt the bruise of the impact of a big fish against his leg, as he was drawing out of the water at Wyckoff's dock. He yelled a warning, but Stilwell was too far away and before he could reach the dock, he was dragged under.

Leg Torn to Shreds
When Stilwell's companions spread the alarm in Matawan, W. Stanley Fisher, 25, and accustomed to the sea, was among those who volunteered to aid in searching for the boy's body. Disregarding all warning, he dove repeatedly in the spot where the shark seized Stilwell. Finally he found the mangled body and was bringing it to shore when he felt the shark turning under him. He fought lustily with legs and feet, screaming for help, but holding tight to Stilwell's body. When he was finally dragged into a boat, it was seen his right leg had been literally torn into strips from the shark's teeth. Fisher died before he could be taken to a hospital.

General Hunt Organized
Hundreds of men, armed with rifles, pistols, dynamite and all sorts of harpoons, hunted ceaselessly along the Jersey shore today. It is now feared Stilwell's body may have been eaten—and that the shark came back to its feast on human flesh after the attack, since another one of those attacked by the fish was bitten just as he was endeavoring to bring the body to shore.

State aid in seeking the shark will be asked of Governor Fielder today. Dread of further attacks is plaguing havoc with the business of bathing-house proprietors in all beaches nearby. The bathers apparently reason that if a shark swims up into the sluggish waters of Matawan creek, not more than fifteen feet deep, he will go anywhere.

The fishermen experts in and around New York think there is only one man-killer shark—but assuming their hypothesis to be correct, the big fish has shown an amazing faculty for travel and a boldness which does not match with supposed facts as to the timidity of sharks in general.

RUSSIA EMERGES FROM HER CAST OF UNPREPAREDNESS

Citizens of Nation Working as One for Nation; Russia Today Is Highly Organized in All Lines

(The average American citizen looks upon the Russian common people as down-trodden, submissive and cowed. Phil Simms has "discovered" the truth about this wonderful people. He has written a series of seven stories showing the marvelous co-operative organization of the Russian masses, which is rising toward the zenith of its power and efficiency through the aid it has been asked to give the government since the beginning of the war.—Editor.)

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PETROGRAD, June 12.—(By Mail).—Slowly, like a giant getting under way, Russia, backed by her plain people, is gathering strength. Today, working for her, she has an army of them 50,000,000 strong.

This is not sob-ister hysteria. It is truth.

The Russian war is the people's war. With their incalculable fortitude the people are backing up the army in a way peculiar to them and not to be found in any other country of Europe. In England and France for instance, the governments are co-operating with industrial corporations and bankers—to the exclusion of well-defined citizens' groups—thus keeping the nation and the army supplies.

In Russia the government and army also co-operate with these. But they co-operate with an organized people too, through non-political groups which have been formed all over the country—citizens' associations, co-operative societies, peasants' unions—and whose aim is but to serve Russia.

Then there is a Central committee, composed of civilians, to co-ordinate the efforts of the groups and take the army's orders.

So some of the fifty millions are at the front, in uniform, under arms. Others are back of the lines drilling to go to the front. The rest are scattered all over the Russian Empire working at their jobs, big or little, but for the nation. All mobilized just as effectively, so far as carrying on the war is concerned, as the foremost soldiers in the foremost trenches.

The Citizens' organizations for aiding the country and the army are literally hundreds in number but the majority of these can be bunched under one or the other four general names.

Many Working Bodies
Then there is the Municipality Union, grouping the work of Russian cities.

Next is the War Trade committee. Lastly the Co-operative Union, whose membership includes over 30,000,000 people, mostly peasants, and whose activities effect in one way or another more than half the population of the Russian Empire.

So it is putting it very conservatively to say that, counting soldiers and those backing up the soldiers, Russia has fifty million souls toiling to fetch her home a victory.

In order that the work of these organizations may clash as little as possible there is a Central committee sitting permanently, week days and Sunday, in a building to itself here in Petrograd. When the government has need of this or that for the army, or for refugees, or for its organization back of the fighting lines, it can and does call on the Central Committee for aid. The Central Committee, looking over the vast resources at its command, with its wires reaching out into the farthest corners of the Empire, sees at a glance what can be done and does it, quickly and efficiently. All the sciences, arts, trades and occupations have been mobilized in this way.

The whole world knows that Russia lacked sufficient munitions at the start of the war. So did the other allies. But the difference between Russia and them was this: They were great industrial countries and she was not.

Russia could not remedy this in a day. Nor even in a year. Germany had had for a long time practically a monopoly on manufactured articles, chemicals and so forth in Russia and, as former Premier Count Kokotsov pointed out, this had proved a positive curse to the empire. When the war came on, severing all relations with Russia and her former source of supplies, she felt a pinch.

The worst of this situation so far as Russia was concerned, was that it could not be quickly remedied. Depending on Germany for manufactured articles, she lacked machinery to make them. Buying nearly all her chemicals from Teutonic drummers, she could not immediately start manufacturing them herself. And so on.

Which brings us to this: The Russian people, through their organizations, have accomplished near-miracles, and are still accomplishing them, making up for past delay. Through their combined wits and resources, clear down through to the furthestmost peasant of Siberia, they have bridged what otherwise might have been disaster.

The story of some of these citizen-organizations, how they came into being, how they work and the extent of their utility for the public good, will be told in subsequent articles.

ALEX MOLL FINDS HABIT A MASTER HARD TO ESCAPE

He Loves the Law But Oh You
Dimmerless Forty Miles an Hour on a Concrete
Road

YES, YES! HE'LL REFORM

But by That Time He'll Be an Ancient and Honorable Paragon of Virtue in Reading
Slippers

"It wouldn't be difficult to teach a well bred automobile to observe the city ordinances if one could control the sub-conscious processes of one's own habit", complained Alex Moll, of the Overland Auto company.

"No, I am about an average fellow, barring height, and the grass isn't flourishing on the roads I have been accustomed to drive. But since the automobile has been placed under martial law I have experienced a sort of professional pride in keeping my spirited Overland out of police court. They haven't got me yet, but—who knows?"

It Slips One's Mind

"I'll bet every driver who has enough pep to hit forty on a stretch of concrete is having a lot of trouble with himself. It may wear out, but until one gets used to this slow pedal one can't afford to think of anything else. You loaf along at ten, twelve, fourteen, with half an eye on the speedometer. Ty Cobb's latest steal or a sector of creek above Trout Falls slips pleasantly into your mind, and vision wanders to a squirrel scolding in a roadside tree or an animated fashion hint on the boulevard. Only a moment has passed, but as the speedometer drifts back into your gaze—Holy Smoke! You're going twenty on the risk of your life. You cut her down with a lightning movement, and take a sneaking look over your shoulder for that farmer guy on the motorcycle. You breathe a deep sigh of relief when you see an empty road behind you. "And then—and then—you do it all over again."

Just for Example

"Twice yesterday I found myself pulling up to park on the wrong side of the street. I leave the car for a business call and come scurrying back like a thief to see if my tail lights are on. I see the police station at the city hall looming up through a searchlight glare, and suddenly realize that I am driving without dimmers right into Chief Webber's dooryard. I do all these things over and over, despite a solemn determination not to do them at all, and I'll wager about seven hundred more fellows in La Crosse are in the same predicament."

Old Age the Cure

"No doubt we shall eventually acquire the like-stead and habitually move with ponderous moderation, but ere ever that time comes I shall have acquired an aldermanic waist-line and a gouty limp; I shall be president of the Baby Welfare League and a candidate for the state senate; I shall lose blank verse and be devoted to cribbage; I shall approach a city-broke four-cylinder with trepidation and scream at the sound of a siren. In a word, I shall be superannuated, fatty-degenerated and demerolized, doped against mirth and vaccinated against speed."

"Look out, d—n it! There she goes up to twenty-one again! For the love of Pete, look behind!"

KAISER MOVES TWO

Cannoneers occurred on the French front on both sides of the Somme last night, but there were no important actions, the war office announced today.

In the Champagne, the French penetrated a salient in the German line, taking prisoners. In the Argonne, a German attack northeast of Bolante was checked by French fire. In the Vosges a German attack south of Carapach was repulsed after a violent grenade combat.

Haig Report

LONDON, July 13.—Artillerying occurred on certain sectors of the British front last night but the general situation remains unchanged. General Haig reported this afternoon.

West of Wythatch and south of the Lavasse canal, the Germans attempted a raid, but were driven off.

Despite unfavorable weather aeroplanes on both sides were very active. Several hostile aeroplanes were driven off. A British machine failed to return after one of these combats.

OPPOSING COUNSEL IN ORPET CASE TO CLOSE

'LOOK OUT FOR THE CARS! SAFETY FIRST' SAYS 'Q' CAMPAIGN

"Beating their way across Nebraska in the winter, three unemployed workmen found a pile of hot chimneys in the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy yards. They were very tired and cold, and it was agreed that two of them should sleep by the chimneys while the third watched for trains.

"But the man on watch went to sleep, his arm falling across the rail. An express train went through, and the awakened watchman found his own arm and the bodies of his two companions ground to pieces on the tracks."

Inspector F. B. Thomas of the C. B. & Q. Safety First department, told the above story to illustrate the need of an educational campaign against trespass in La Crosse. H. B. Smith, local "Q" freight agent, at whose request Mr. Thomas came here to help work out the details of the program he had devised for La Crosse, replied:

"Within three years two men have lost their lives in the La Crosse yards by making a pillow of the rails. It is in hot weather that our yards here appeal to them. There have been a large number of deaths and accidents due to this practice in La Crosse."

Work Out Program

But it is to protect citizens of La Crosse that Mr. Smith inaugurated the present campaign. Assisted by Inspector Thomas, who two years ago was here with the Burlington's Safety First special car, he conducted a meeting yesterday in which the situation was discussed, and later they visited business houses in the railroad district, where they were made sure of friendly co-operation, as a result placards are being printed, to be hung in factories and at places contiguous to the lines, urging to avoid trespassing on railroad property.

It was learned that scores of north side employees of south side plants choose the Burlington tracks in preference to the sidewalks between the north and south sides, and an especial appeal to abandon this practice was made.

Have a Cure

The "Stop! Look! Listen!" warning was repeated. People are requested to pause for a moment before passing over tracks at public crossings, and then to cross quickly at right angles, instead of meandering diagonally over the danger point.

Agent Smith hopes to so impress the La Crosse public that many hazards habitually encountered in the past will no longer be risked.

STALWARTS NAME

Viroqua, George L. Harrington, Elkhorn, Nels Holman, Deerfield, and Hugh Winslow were nominated for secretary of state. On the second ballot Winslow received 149, Harrington, 264; Holman, 38 and Winslow 1. Harrington was declared nominated. It required four ballots to settle the contest for attorney general. The contest was between L. H. Bancroft, Richland Center; Glen H. Williams, Ladysmith and E. R. Hicks of Oshkosh.

Five Hundred Attend

The convention was attended by about 500 delegates. Governor Philipp was named by acclamation and a committee composed of E. T. Fairchild, Milwaukee; H. H. Morgan, Madison, and M. T. Walrich, Shawano was named to escort the governor before the convention. His appearance in the hall was the provocation of wild cheering.

"Conventions are again popular," declared the governor. "Two years ago when we gathered here our convention was ridiculed. Now those who ridiculed us are holding conventions also. But I was elected governor. When I came to Madison I found an organized machine to prevent me accomplishing the things which I told the people I meant to accomplish. But in spite of this opposition we have driven economy into state offices to which it was a stranger before and we have saved the taxpayers' money."

The governor thanked the convention for the nomination and he said that he was sure he would be again nominated and elected.

A committee composed of one representative from each congressional district brought in the platform which was read to the convention by L. H. Bancroft of Richland Center and adopted without a word of debate or opposition. It endorses the candidacy of Charles H. Hughes for president and Charles W. Fairbanks for vice president; it endorses the candidacy of M. G. Jeffris for United States senator against La Follette; it praises the Philipp administration; it claimed that it has saved the taxpayers $2,000,000 a year and declares that much of the good that the governor attempted to accomplish in the last legislature was obstructed.

The convention was called to order by George B. West of Milwaukee. C. B. Bird of Wausau acted as permanent chairman. Addresses were made by Governor Philipp and M. G. Jeffris, Janesville. The convention was attended by about 500 delegates.

SAY BREMEN WILL LAND AT GOTHAM

NEW YORK, July 13.—The Bremen, the second German submarine to start for America, will enter New York harbor before July 29 and dock at the North German Lloyd piers in Hoboken, it was reported in shipping circles this afternoon. Preparations for her arrival are now being made, it was said.

The Bremen will be followed by a third submarine named the Amerika.

that he approved the candidacy of Mr. Williams.

Silas Towne of La Valle nominated Senator George Staurenmeier for governor. A motion for the convention to indorse all three of the candidates was voted down, by a roll call of counties, by the apparent test vote of 278 to 174. D. J. Mariett of Milwaukee then moved that Secretary J. S. Gludice be instructed to cast the convention's vote for Mr. Williams. This was carried viva voce. Chairman Patrick Martin of Green Bay ruling for the ayes without a contest being made, the test vote apparently indicating to the conservatives that Williams men controlled.

Attempt to Stay Tide

The Karel men tried in vain to stay the tide by moves to adjourn and to indorse more than one candidate.

Wolfe received the unanimous support of the convention, no other candidates being offered. It is this fact which caused the greatest dissatisfaction among the Karel men, who believed that by affreeing on Wolfe they could secure concessions in turn and secure the nomination of a candidate other than Williams.

One of the factors which did much to dispense the ever fainter harmony was a letter from Senator Paul O. Hustling, read by his brother, M. J. Hustling, indorsing the candidacy of Williams.

Williams should be forgiven for splitting with Karel in 1912 on the income tax plank, Senator Hustling said, because time has proved Williams right and Karel wrong. "Ikey must not think he can have everything," was one of the phrases used by the senator.

Letter is Hooted

The Karel men early took exception to Hustling's views and the reader of the letter was hooted and jeered and at times could not be heard. He was finally forced to sit down before being able to present another letter which he said he wished to read.

MRS. N. C. DORSET'S SISTER DIES IN LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Mrs. Georgia Woodford, wife of Rev. Sidney H. Woodford, died at the Hospital of the Good Samaritans in Los Angeles, Cal., on the evening of July 11, according to word received here. Mrs. Woodford is the youngest sister of Mrs. N. C. Dorset and Miss Linn Hammer of this city. She is very well known here, having spent her early childhood in this city. It was here that she was married to Rev. Sidney Woodford who survives her. Besides her husband she leaves three daughters, Mary, Fanny and Mrs. Charles Reich and two sons, Samuel and Henry.

FIRST FIELD MEET HELD TOMORROW

Students of the physical education department of the La Crosse normal have assumed charge of the work on the playgrounds at Winona as well as in this city. Tomorrow afternoon will occur the first field meet of the season. The three playgrounds in the city will take part. All participants are divided into midgets, juniors and seniors.

Harry Grausnick, popular foot ball man at the local school and captain of the 1917 track team, has charge of the senior events in the Winona meet. Walter Bright, a member of La Crosse's gymnastic team, will take charge of the juniors. Miss Carol Johnston, who has attended the normal for the past two years, has charge of the girls in the up-river city.

FOURTEEN LABOR LEADERS GUILTY OF CONSPIRACY

CHICAGO, July 13.—Fourteen Chicago labor leaders were found guilty of conspiracy and three acquitted today by a jury which had been deliberating the case all night.

The seventeen defendants, most of them business agents of building trades organizations, were charged with conspiracy to extort, to boycott, to commit malicious mischief, and to obtain money under false pretenses. It was charged that they systematically extorted money from contractors, building owners, etc., by threats of strikes and violence.

The three acquitted were William Claus, business agent of the Fixture Hangers' union; Thomas Kelly, business agent of the Electrical Workers' union, and John White, former business agent of the Painters' District council.

Six of those convicted were sent to the penitentiary for from two to five years, and eight were fined from $500 to $2,000.

THREE KILLED WHEN LIGHTNING STRIKES CHEMICAL PLANT

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 13.—Three men were blown to pieces and five others fatally injured in an explosion which partially wrecked the plant of the Semet-Solvay company near here today. Several other workmen were slightly hurt.

The men had gone into a shed adjoining the plant to escape a heavy downpour of rain when the structure was struck by lightning. The shed was filled with chemicals which exploded.

LA CROSSE RACING CENTER AS STEEDS WORK OUT FOR MEET

CHICAGO, Louisville and Cleveland have little on the local track today. Numerous steeds, here for the two day racing meet, Tuesday and Wednesday, took their first workouts today under a blazing sun. Horsemen aver the horses will be in the best possible condition for the meet.

Four local animals are going to contest for a part of the $1,800 prize money on the boards. Grove Idol, N. Nustad's horse, paces in the 2:24 event. Tuesday. That there must be a great exhibition of speed to beat the entry is undoubted by local horsemen. There are eighteen entries for the event.

Prince Gibson, owned by Edward Lyons, and Fabbini, owned by C. L. Hood, will meet in the 2:30 trot, in which there are sixteen entries. Prince Gibson has been trained on the local track and has attracted more than his share of attention. Fabbini, to be driven by W. N. Willard, won the 2:30 trot at the Interstate fair in 1914.

J. P. West, a recent arrival in La Crosse, sends North Star into the 2:14 pace. West has entered four other horses in the meet.

FIRST POST CARD FROM TROOP TRAIN

ON THE NORTHWESTERN RAILWAY, Troop train of the Third Wisconsin Infantry, speeding along about twenty miles south of Madison, July 12, 1916, 2:30 p. m.

To THE TRIBUNE goes the first card of that splendidly big box full.

I only wish you could have seen the boys—yes, and even the officers, too—as I went through the twelve coaches distributing them and announcing, "More compliments of La Crosse people and of the La Crosse Tribune." Only then could you be made to realize the exceeding value of what La Crosse friends, through THE TRIBUNE, through that chest, are doing and how very greatly it is treasured.

May I make one suggestion in case you should supply more post cards, namely, that you have omitted the words, "Place a one-cent stamp here," and have absolutely nothing there? Most truly yours,

(Signed) GEORGE R. LONGBRAKE

THREE CONCERTS BOOKED FOR CITY FOR NEXT WEEK

There will be much music in the air next week, hot weather notwithstanding.

Such is the announcement of City Bandmaster A. P. Funk today.

The North Side Military band will give three open air entertainments. On Monday night, Riverside park will be the scene. The West Avenue playgrounds will be visited Wednesday night, and the band moves to Copeland park on the north side for Friday night.

MARSHALL HOME FROM DOUGLAS

Harry Marshall, who attended Marquette college at Milwaukee during the past year, has returned from Camp Douglas where he was in the employ of the railroad company. He assisted in getting the soldiers off for the front.

BARTENDER DUCKS BUT ASSAILANT'S AIM IS TOO TRUE

When Henry Rick was refused a drink in the saloon of Joseph Butler, 1310 South Fourth street, last night, he picked up a heavy cuspidor from the floor and hurled it at Mr. Butler's head. Butler tried to dodge but Rick's aim was true. Rick is in the custody of the police. Butler, whose head was severely cut, is under the care of a physician.

TIRE COMPANY SELLS

The Duplex Tire company, located at 219 Pearl street, sold out this morning to the Natenshon company which recently purchased the building occupied by the tire company. The business will be continued under the new management.

He Wanted Just A Breath Of Air Not A Suicide

A man walked dejectedly down State street towards Riverside park yesterday afternoon. He was watched by S. L. Bovee with alarm. The man was muttering to himself. Bovee thought he heard him say, "I'm going to end it all."

Bovee rushed to a telephone booth and called the police.

Then he continued watching the man.

The man walked through the park and down to the levee.

He took his coat off slowly, put it down beside him—and laid down on it.

He seemed to be very much put out when police disturbed him.

"I said, 'Gee, but it's hot,'" the man told them. He gave them the name of T. J. Uglum, of Elion, Ia.

WHILE SOLDIERS GO TO TROPIC CLIME LA CROSSE IS HOTTEST IN U. S. A.

La Crosse soldier boys on their way to San Antonio today need not worry about the stories they have heard of the terrific heat in Texas.

They might as well be traveling northward, for if reports of the local weather bureau are correct, they are dodging the torpid rays of Old Sol.

While mothers and fathers, brothers and sisters and friends of the boys in khaki are fretting that the Texas heat will blister their soldier boys, La Crosse can boast that it was the warmest spot in the United States two days ago. The mercury then soared to 95, Madison was next in line with a temperature of 92. Galveston had a nice cool temperature of 80 and it was real chilly in Jacksonville, Fla., with a temperature of 76.

TWO BANDIT BANDS REPORTED ON WAY FOR BORDER RAIDS

BY WEBB C. MILLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

COLUMBUS, N. M., July 13.—Heavy patrols of cavalry were on the alert along the border west of here today, to prevent a raid by a new band of bandits reported gathering in the San Simon valley. That the Mexicans may be led by one of Villa's lieutenants, bent on complicating relations between the United States and Mexico through attacks on border towns, is feared by army officers.

Customs line riders brought word from natives who saw the new band riding eastward south of the border toward Columbus, with the avowed intention of making forays into the United States to raid ranches. Apprehension was felt today for the safety of ranchers in the isolated stretches west of here. The bandits are reported near the scene of the murders of William Parker and his wife a fortnight ago.

The new band is said to be fully armed and well mounted.

Band Heads Toward Ojinaga

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 13.—A large band of Villistas, probably headed by Villa himself, is headed determinedly toward Ojinaga, according to reports received at army headquarters here early today.

The band is believed to have been trapped in the creek. Richard E. Erdman, one of the party hunting the man-eater, reported this afternoon that he saw the shark's fin within twenty feet of the spot where the bathers were attacked yesterday.

Two large charges of dynamite were dropped immediately and men, armed with rifles, lined the bank of the creek to shoot the sea monster if he is blown to the surface.

SEES LEGAL RIGHT IN ABANDONMENT OF DECLARATION

BY ED L. KEEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, July 13.—Great Britain acted on strictly legal principles when she abandoned the Declaration of London as a code regulating blockade and rights of neutrals and belligerents at sea, Lord Robert Cecil, minister of blockade, told the United Press in an exclusive interview today.

The British minister answered several assertions made by the German chancellor in a recent statement regarding the Declaration of London. "Apparently the chancellor regards the declaration of London as a charter of freedom of the seas," said Lord Robert.

"What are the true facts? The Declaration of London was merely a code endeavoring to reconcile certain contradictory theories of international law. It specifically permitted the destruction of neutral prizes. It did not repeal the well established rights of belligerents against enemy commerce."

"THE DIVIDEND" AT MAJESTIC TODAY

Co-starred with W. H. Thompson is Charley Ray, who has become in his brief career with Triangle one of the biggest popular favorites in filmdom. No one who saw his wonderful performance in "The Coward" with Frank Keenan, has forgotten it. Save for a glimpse of him in "Peggy," Triangle patrons have not seen Ray since "The Coward" pictures in which he has worked having been delayed for various reasons. But now he is to gladden their hearts again in a part which gives him a chance to display his marked talents as an actor. He appears as the son of the cold hearted despot impersonated by Thompson, and becomes in the course of the play an opium fiend, then a tattered creature of the gutters, finally playing with his life the penalty of his father's guilt. In the closing scenes of the pictures Ray displays a triumph of make-up, rendering his ordinarily good looking personality quite unrecognizable.

"The Dividend" is at the Majestic today, Friday and Saturday.

FORMAL NOTIFICATION TO BE GIVEN HUGHES LAST DAY OF MONTH

NEW YORK, July 13.—Charles Evans Hughes will be told that he is the republican candidate for president on July 31, at 8 p. m., in Carnegie hall, New York city. Selection of this date for the perfunctory notification ceremony was announced today by Senator Warren G. Harding, chairman of the notification committee, following a conference with Hughes and Chairman Wilcox.

"There will be invited to be present at the notification ceremony the members of the republican national committee, delegates and alternates to the republican national convention, heads of republican organizations throughout the various states, progressive national committeemen and republican governors and members of congress," said Senator Harding.

"The notification ceremony will be followed by a reception, given by Mr. Hughes at the Hotel Astor to invited guests."

Roosevelt will be asked to attend.

GRAPPLING HOOKS BAITED WITH BEEF AFTER MANEATERS

NEW YORK, July 13.—With great chunks of raw beef dangling from grappling hooks, several score of men were fishing along the Jersey coast this afternoon for the man eating shark, or sharks, that have terrified bathers at Atlantic coasts resorts.

Other squads sped up and down the coast in motorboats, armed with rifles and keeping a sharp lookout for the man eaters that have killed four bathers and badly mangled a fifth within a week.

A wire net was thrown across Matawan creek, the twenty foot Jersey stream penetrated by the shark that yesterday killed and partially devoured 12-year-old Lester Stilwell, mangled Stanley W. Fisher so badly that he died and inflicted serious injuries on 12-year-old Joseph Dunn.

Three unsuccessful attempts were made today to bring the body of the Stilwell boy to the surface by exploding large charges of dynamite in the narrow creek.

At Coney Island, Brighton Beach, Rockaway and other resorts catering to New York's millions, the beaches were practically deserted this afternoon, despite the heat.

A seven and one-half foot shark, weighing 350 pounds was captured three miles off Sea Bright, N. J., after a stiff fight and brought to Sheepshead Bay today by the crew of the sloop R. C. Lundy.

The shark is believed to have been trapped in the creek. Richard E. Erdman, one of the party hunting the man-eater, reported this afternoon that he saw the shark's fin within twenty feet of the spot where the bathers were attacked yesterday.

Two large charges of dynamite were dropped immediately and men, armed with rifles, lined the bank of the creek to shoot the sea monster if he is blown to the surface.

NO RELIEF FOR WEEK SAYS WEATHER BUREAU

WASHINGTON, July 13.—From Maine to the Rockies and from Virginia and the Ohio river, north, hot weather is likely to continue for a week or more, the weather bureau forecast today said.

Temperatures from 90 up to 95 are not unusual.

The heat, not having had a time to warm up from several thunder showers of last week, will be more comfortable.

The north Atlantic coast heat will be little drier than for the past two days.

ST. LOUIS PROTESTS GAME

PHILADELPHIA, July 13.—The Athletics' victory over St. Louis Tuesday has been protested, according to an announcement by Manager Jones of St. Louis Wednesday.

Jones' objection is based upon the return of Walsh, right fielder for the Philadelphia team to the second game after the umpire had banished him in the first frames. The banishment, claimed Jones, should have been for both games.

CRESCENT GROCER COMPANY

STAPLE and FANCY GROCERIES
FRESH MEATS A SPECIALTY
Rivers, Louisiana

November 18th, 1916.

Burroughs Adding Machine Co.,
Detroit, Mich.

Gentlemen:

I have been using one of your machines now for several months. I find new uses for it all the time. When you first placed a machine on trial I did not think I needed it, but I would not think of doing without it.

I use the machine with the McCaskey System I have, checking the additions on the tickets, securing the total meat and grocery sales separately, also total credit sales each day. Before purchasing the machine, we had some trouble with errors in additions on the tickets, now we use the machine to check the additions on each ticket which prevents all errors.

The machine is used in checking invoices of goods purchased, making out deposit slips, and keeping up with the daily statement of the business. It is also used to check up collections made by the collector on weekly collections.

I am a firm believer in up-to-date fixtures, and consider the Burroughs the best investment of any fixture I have in the store.

Call on me when you need a booster.

Yours very truly,

No Business is too Small for Accuracy

That letter of William S. Moore might be signed by any of thousands of Burroughs users.

For one of the first things the average retailer says is: "I don't need it" or "My business is too small."

But soon after owning it comes the other statement: "I find new uses for it all the time."

Errors That Cause Losses

Addition is the bugbear of almost any business. It's the errors in adding that eat up profits through unseen losses—that make bookkeeping drudgery—that make real knowledge of your business impossible to get without too much time, expense and system.

But Moore has the simplest kind of bookkeeping. He gets accurate totals every day of cash sales and credit sales. He knows that he is not losing money by figure mistakes of clerks. He knows whether he's getting his turnover or not, whether his grocery or meat department is paying as it should, and how his collections are going.

Moore Gets Correct Totals

He doesn't even have a bookkeeper, because he can get those truth-telling totals so easily, quickly and accurately with his Burroughs Figuring Machine.

When he says it is a good investment he is qualified to speak; for he uses the cash register, the computing scale, the credit register and a Burroughs—and yet he began business in a mighty small way.

Talk with our representative in your locality—your telephone book or your banker will supply the address—and have him show you how a Burroughs Figuring Machine can be made a profitable part of your business. Or write to the Burroughs Adding Machine Company, Detroit, New York, Atlanta, Kansas City or San Francisco.

INDIANS EXHIBIT COMEBACK STRAIN AND LEAD LEAGUE

NEW YORK, July 13.—Showing that nothing is impossible to a team with a fighting heart, the Cleveland Indians have taken four out of five games from the New York Yankees on the Yankee grounds since Sunday and today lead the league by the scant margin of half a game.

On paper the Yanks should have fattened at the expense of the Forest City club swingers. They had eight pitchers all ready for action—Cleveland had but three of its consistent winners in shape ready for all hazards. The Yanks were up and coming strong while Cleveland, leading most of the time since the opening of the season, was supposed to have been pretty well shot. But they were far from it.

In the National, the Dodgers leading the league have been losing ground and today hold their place by but three games as against four and one-half on Monday.

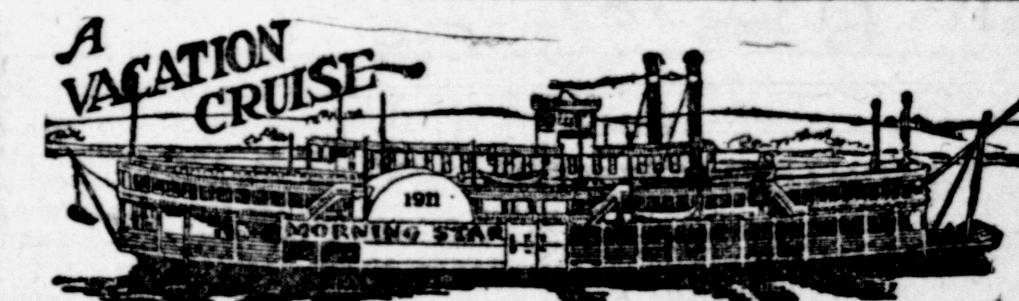

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

Yesterday's Hero
Tris Speaker. Tris banged out a triple and three singles in the second Cleveland-Yankee game, the blows helping the Indians to first place.

The Red Sox hooked both games from Chicago and are now within two games of the pinnacle of glory—the same being first place.

Cleveland cracked under the strain—cracked out seventeen hits for seven runs and two games, taking the lead from the Yanks on their own stamping ground just when the New Yorkers were supposed to be at their strongest.

Madge would have chosen the seashore rather than the mountains, but the doctor said it must be the mountains for her mother. So that settled it, and her father engaged a mountain furnished cottage.

Madge was soon quite as absorbed in getting tweeds and khakis and soft shirtheists as she would have been in getting an entirely different wardrobe had the seashore been her summer destination. She wanted a tweed hat to match her suit, but her tailor assured her that not a scrap of the material could be had from across the water for many and many a moon, if ever. A day or two before her departure she made a tour of the men's hat departments in the big stores, and was delighted to find

LA CROSSE ASTONISHED
BY SIMPLE MIXTURE

La Crosse people are astonished at the INSTANT action of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-I-ka. ONE SPOONFUL removes such surprising foul matter it relieves almost ANY CASE of constipation, sour stomach or gas. Because Adler-I-ka acts on BOTH lower and upper bowels, a few doses often relieve or prevent appendicitis. A short treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. Hoescher Bros., druggists.

in one of them a number of men's brown tweed hats. They were scattered over the counter where they had been placed for the inspection of a customer, a tall man who walked away as Madge approached.

"Oh, have you got this in a small size?" eagerly asked Madge, as she held up a brown hat that would harmonize beautifully with her suit.

"Yes, miss, all sizes." The smiling clerk produced a smaller size. "Just sold one of these to a gentleman who says he looked all about town without finding such a good value."

Madge was inspecting the hat, with little regard for the testimonial of the departing customer, but with intense satisfaction that it was the color and size she wanted. Leaving orders to have it sent out home, she hurried on to complete her morning's shopping.

Her last purchase she made in the trunk department located in the basement of a big store. With the thought of luncheon, Madge glanced at her wrist watch and was amazed to find that it was already forty minutes of the hour she was to meet her mother at the dressmaker's. That left scant time for luncheon and a twenty-minute car ride, so she stepped over to the store lunch counter nearby and ordered coffee and sandwiches as if she were as thoroughly accustomed to it as girls who lunched there daily.

On her right, two girls were talking shop busily and scattering personalities freely.

"My boss is like somebody crazy today," said one, between bits of her cheese sandwich. "First he telegraphs an order for a lot of camping stuff, then he cancels it with another telegram, and just as I'm dropping the confirming letter in the box he ups and reinstates the order."

"Must be in love," suggested her companion.

"John Marchmont in love? Not much," said the other, assuredly. "He's in a rage 'cause up in the mountains, where his cottage used to be the only one for miles, some gink has built some brand-new cottages and rented them furnished. I heard him tell some fellow that he supposed each family would have so many children or dogs or marriageable daughters that his bachelor quiet would be lost in the shuffle." Reaching for her pie, and shoving her sandwich plate aside, the girl added: "But I should worry, for he's so determined to beat the others to it that he's going two weeks earlier than usual, and I'll have things easy when he's away."

The two girls hastily swallowed the last of their luncheon and were gone by the time Madge's was served. Their mention of mountain cottages had set her to wondering what sort of neighbors would fall to her lot, but during the next two days the packing and checking and telephoning kept her so busy that she thought of nothing else than reaching her train with herself and her mother and their belongings intact.

She sank into the car seat with a sigh of profound relief, as she thought that after that day she would be free to rest or to roam the hills, to search for wild flowers or to fish for trout, as the mood suited.

The first day at their cottage she and her mother were content to sit quietly on the porch and survey the hills and valleys and cloud-capped mountains, but the second morning Madge eagerly announced her intention to take a long tramp. A little later, she came to her mother, who was still at the breakfast table, with a look of intense disappointment.

"Oh, mother, just look!" she exclaimed, holding at arm's length a brown tweed hat. "They've sent me a hat big enough for old King Cole. It was delivered after I began packing and I stuck it in my trunk without opening the package. I know it isn't the one I tried on." With a last rueful look at it, Madge tossed the hat across the room to the window seat.

"But, dearie," said her mother cheerfully, "if you're sure you tried on a smaller one, send this back and exchange it. If you'll hurry you can get it in this morning's mail, for Sandy says the rural carrier gets to our box about 10 o'clock."

Madge wrote a hurried note to the department store, and made the hat into a rather awkward bundle. Then she hurried down the winding road toward the row of mail boxes on the main roadway, half a mile distant. When there remained at least one-fourth of the distance to cover Madge saw the little covered mail cart with its two jogging sorrel ponies steadily approaching the boxes. She started to run, and a moment later she heard somebody else running behind her.

Looking over her shoulder, she saw a tall man descending the road toward her in long, easy strides. Evidently he, too, was trying to catch the postman, and Madge began to lag in the hope that he would offer to act as relay for her, but, to her astonishment, he swung past the next instant without even a look at her. Thinking only of her desire to get that troublesome hat back to the store and seeing how impossible it was for her to keep pace with this tall man, Madge called out to him, appealingly:

"Won't you please take my package?"

The man halted, though the look he threw at her over his shoulder showed plainly that he was confused and displeased. With a barely noticeable shrug, he came a few steps back to get that troublesome hat back to the store and seeing how impossible it was for her to keep pace with this tall man, Madge called out to him, appealingly:

halt. Again he showed confusion and displeasure, and Madge became painfully embarrassed, all of which tended to make the second delay unnecessarily long.

Meanwhile the sorrel ponies had gained on him, and although he waved his bundles and yelled vigorously, he was neither seen nor heard by the stolid driver inclosed in the little covered cart, and all he could do was to stare helplessly at the jogging ponies as they trotted away from the mail boxes and smother the expletives that came as the logical accompaniment of his predicament.

"Oh, I'm terribly sorry I delayed you," said Madge, as she overtook him and reached for the offending package and letter. "I've half a notion now to keep the old hat and wear it, big or little, just for spite at its mischiefmaking."

"Hat?" The man looked at Madge in questioning surprise. "Why, I was sending back a hat, too. It's too small, after an unusual lot of both-er to get it."

"Mine was too big," laughed Madge, and further confidences ended in the discovery that each had the hat intended for the other. They laughed long and heartily over the coincidence, and made the return journey up the hill together. The man presented his card to Madge and assured her of his desire to be neighborly.

"I came up earlier than usual this year," he said "as a means of of-"

"Oh, I know!" exclaimed Madge, as she read the name John Marchmont on his card. It was some weeks later, though, before she confessed that what she knew was that he had come up early to escape the children and dogs and marriageable daughters of his new neighbors, and by that time he had already confessed his complete renunciation of the desire for bachelor solitude.

SOLDIERS HIKE
SEE THEIR WIVES

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., July 13.—Two hundred miles is quite a hike but it is worth it when a bride of a week is waiting at the end of the journey, according to Edwin Karbe, a member of Company C, who arrived here yesterday morning accompanied by Karl Hoehnke, also a member of the Sheboygan militia company, after walking the entire distance from Camp Douglas. The two men left camp without leave last Wednesday and started for home—Karbe to see the girl he married the day before the militia was mobilized and Hoehnke to procure medical assistance. As both men come under the ruling of the war department which allows married men to leave the guard if they wish, it is believed they will be allowed to remain.

LIGHTNING KILLS PICNICKER

TRENTON, N. J., July 13.—During an electric storm yesterday afternoon, lightning struck a group of picnickers a few miles outside of Morrisville, killing Mrs. Abe Cooperman of Trenton and seriously injuring nine others.

This Leaves the Skin
Free From Hairy Growths

(Toilet Talks)
A simple method for completely removing every trace of hair or fuzz is here given. This is painless and usually a single treatment will banish even stubborn growths. To remove hairs, make a thick paste with some powdered delatone and water, spread on hairy surface and, after about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This method will not mar the skin, but to avoid disappointment, be certain you get delatone.

DELAYED SERVICES HELD AT RUSHFORD CHURCH YESTERDAY

RUSHFORD, Minn., July 13.—(Special.)—The ordination services, which were to have taken place at Emmanuel church in this city on June 21, were carried out last Thursday morning. Because of the sudden illness of Bishop McElwain, the bishop himself was unable to be here for the June date. He improved condition, however, permitted his attending on Thursday. The early hour of the service kept many away. The gentleman of high standing in the church who were present are: Rt. Rev. H. A. McElwain, D. D., of Faribault, ordaining bishop; Rev. G. H. TenBroeck, of Austin, preacher and presenter; Rev. Geo. S. Keller, of Winona; Epistler, and Dr. J. J. Hillmer, of Winona, Gosselier. Dr. Hillmer took the place of the Very Rev. C. H. Plummer of Lake City, who was unable to be present. The order of the services follow: Morning prayer, at 9:30 a. m., at which Bishop McElwain and Dr. Hillmer officiated; ordination services which commenced at 10:30 with the Processional, followed by the sermon given by Rev. Geo. TenBroeck; a hymn, after which the candidate, Rev. Fred Foster, was presented by Rev. Ten Broeck; the Litany; hymn; Holy Communion; Exhortation and Examination of candidate; Venti Creator; Ordination; Nicene Creed; Offertory; Communion service and Recessional. The sermon was a masterly effort and the preacher, Rev. Ten Broeck, held the attention of his hearers throughout the address. The foundation of his text consisted of the following: "Stewards of the Mysteries of God." Rev. Fred Foster, who was the candidate for ordination, has been rector of Emmanuel church in this city for almost three years and he and his family have become highly appreciated by members of Rushford's religious and social life.
